AUSTRALIA'S NEED.

The simplest way of realizing the vast immigration of desirable immigrants is to imagine what would happen if there were a duplication of the gold rushes of the fifties and sixties. A sudden flooding of the colonies with the population of the United States would be a disaster of the first magnitude. It is of dramatic interest, that it is difficult to compare the long steady pouring in of settlers with capital and labour with the sudden influx of immigrants. Yet in broad results there is little difference between the two. The presence of newly arrived men and women, eager and active, alive to the finger-tip, and turning the old life upside down, has of course much in it that is quite distinct from the quiet, almost imperceptible, increase of the population. The sudden

OVER LEGISLATION.

Employers throughout the Commonwealth are beginning to appreciate the full force of the restrictive legislation introduced by various State Parliaments.
Thus in Victoria we find the master
tanners and leather manufacturers protesting against the proposal to introduce a Conciliation and Arbitration Bill and to repeal the Factories Act. These people claim that the operation of the last-named piece of legislation has been to close up several of the largest tanneries and to greatly reduce the output. They figure that the leather industry in 1897
was worth £275,000, in 1900 it was worth £277,000, and in 1902 it was worth £277,000. This is a serious falling-off in the industry is attributed by the employers to the interference of the Legislature with business. We see for ourselves that the reduction in the volume of work done by master tanners and leather manufacturers
is not compensated for by any general improvement in the industry. The unemployment difficulty is as pressing now as ever it was, and the result is that the workers have nothing to do, while the employers have to deplore a steady and noticeable decrease in the volume of their business. The result is that the workers have nothing to do, while the employers
have to deplore a steady and noticeable decrease in the volume of their business.

GERMANY AND THE VATICAN.

A rumour is reported that Germany is in her influence to secure the election to the Papacy of a candidate who is likely to favour the development of her policy in the East.
The rumour has of course been officially denied, but it may be taken to show how much weight is attached to the favour of the Vatican at the present juncture. It was his meeting with Leo XIII. that made the visit of the Emperor William to Rome of international importance rather than the fact that he was the guest of the Pope. It was the fact that he was the guest of the Pope that made the visit of the Emperor
William to Rome of international importance.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

There are still rumours of all kinds in circulation
as to the question of filling the vacancy in the rank of the Ministry. But the most that can be said with absolute certainty is that nothing has yet been done. The Cabinet met all day, and only rose about midnight. The Prime Minister went into his study retired to his room. The Prime Minister went into

SOUTH AFRICA.

INSUFFICIENCY OF LABOUR.

DECLARATION OF LEADING BOERS.

LONDON, Aug. 3.

A meeting of representative Boers, including General Botha, Mr. Smuts, General Ben Viljoen, Commandant Kemp, and Commandant Colliers, was held at the Boer Club on Saturday for the purpose of considering the labour question.

The meeting passed a resolution that the labour available was insufficient for the mines and for working the farms, but that it was necessary to give a decision on the proposal to introduce Asiatic labour until the Native Labour Commission has completed its report.

The Government at Pretoria appointed a month ago a commission to inquire into the amount of labour necessary to enable the mines and other industries in South Africa to carry on successfully, and to determine approximately the supply of labour obtainable in Central and Southern Africa, who is about to report.

The meeting passed a resolution that the labour available was insufficient for the mines and for working the farms, but that it was necessary to give a decision on the proposal to introduce Asiatic labour until the Native Labour Commission has completed its report.

THE PAPAL ELECTION.

FOUR RESULTLESS BALLOTS.

CARDINAL RAMPOLLA SECURES A MAJORITY.

LONDON, Aug. 3.

News received from Rome last night stated that at the Conclave of Cardinals at the Vatican there had been four ballots taken without any conclusive result having been achieved. No candidate had received the necessary two-thirds majority.

It is reported that Cardinal Rampolla at the fourth ballot obtained 30 votes.

HOW NEWS IS OBTAINED.

SIGNALLING FROM A VATICAN WINDOW.

LONDON, Aug. 3.

Inside the Vatican members of the Swiss Guard watch every court, staircase, and gateway, while the church officials render it impossible to hold any communication with the inner seclusion, where the Cardinals are assembled.

Some signalling, which was observed to be proceeding from a window of the Vatican, induced Cardinal Rampolla, the Cardinal Secretary, to strengthen the precautions for the purpose of preventing news filtering outside.

THE EKPETANT CROWDS.

LONDON, Aug. 3.

Tens of thousands of people are in the vicinity of the Vatican, watching the smoke signals, which tell of another unsuccessful ballot, and ready to acclaim the Pope when he is elected.

CARDINALS WHO WERE FAVOURED.

LONDON, Aug. 3.

The conclave of Cardinals sitting at the Vatican attended Mass at half-past 6 o'clock yesterday morning, and then proceeded at 10 o'clock to the meeting, as called this morning.

It is rumoured in Rome that the first ballot was invalid. It is also stated that eight candidates received substantial support, and that Cardinal Rampolla and Cardinal Serafini Vannetti headed the list in the ballot. Cardinal di Pietro and Cardinal Casarati followed.

A further rumour states that after lunch the Cardinals held a conference with the object of reaching an agreement, but that the second ballot was in the voting precisely the same as the first.

THE SICK CARDINAL'S VOTE.

GUARDING THE CONCLAVE.

LONDON, Aug. 3.

At the voting in the conclave of Cardinals yesterday Cardinal Herrera y de Islaña kept to his bed. Three infirmaries fetched his voting papers from his cell to the chieftain, where they were deposited with the other papers.

Italian troops have been placed in the vicinity of the Vatican in order to ensure the Cardinal's liberty in their deliberations. All communications and all food for those within the Vatican are passed through four revolving tripods, which are guarded by six officials.

Letters and newspapers are censored before being admitted. Even chickens and fish are opened before they are passed through the tripods in order to prevent unauthorised communications reaching the Cardinals in conclave.

UNREST IN PERSIA.

PERSECUTION OF THE BABIS.

LONDON, Aug. 3.

Owing to the fanatical outbreak directed by Mohammedan priests against the Babis sect in Persia, which led to riots and a massacre of hundreds of the sect at Yezd, the situation is critical. A tribe has revolted at Shiraz.

Babis to the number of 2000 have been expelled from the city of Isfahan owing to apprehensions that their presence would cause trouble.

(The above appeared in our second edition yesterday.)

It is now expected for the Babis to be subjected to persecution. It was persecution of a most determined kind that made them as strong as they now are. Babism, the doctrine of Mohammedan sects, was founded in Persia in 1844. It was founded by a man named Baha-ud-Din, who took the name of Baha-ud-Din, "the gate of the faith," and afterwards that of "the point," as he was the recipient of a new divine revelation, led the forces of the world to a new era of world-wide unity. One of his most successful disciples was a highly gifted woman, Gursul-Ara, who was eventually persecuted by many others during a persecution in 1862. THE BANK HOLIDAY.

Although the public offices, the law courts, the Exchange, and a few wholesale houses closed their doors yesterday, there was little of the holiday spirit about the city, and indeed a good many people wondered why the whole of business should have stopped merely because the operations of the banking institutions had ceased for a day. The retail people kept their shops open as usual, and as far as one could gather from a casual inspection of the city during the forenoon, completely new people were getting themselves up to relaxation. There was no general harbour excursion, and the principal marine function was the United Friendly Societies' gala, which was held at Clontarf. The football match, under Australian rules, between the Carlton and Geelong clubs, which was prevented from playing on Saturday owing to the wet weather, was contested on Sunday afternoon at the Sydney Cricket Ground in the afternoon, and attracted about 5000 spectators, and a satisfactory amount of patronage was accorded by tourists to the football races.

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES' DAY.

GALA AT CLONTARF.

It was unfortunate for the members of the United Friendly Societies' annual gala, held yesterday at Clontarf, that the weather was not what was hoped for. However, a very large number of enthusiasts proceeded down the harbour, and many were rewarded by the garden looking beautifully fresh and attractive. At the Clontarf, Bro. P. Forbes, Grand Secretary of the United Friendly Societies, presided. Among those present were Mr. Waddell (State Treasurer), Mr. O'Sullivan (Minister for Works), Mr. Henry (Minister for Agriculture), Mr. Kidd (Minister for Mines and Agriculture), and Bro. H. Smith (Minister for Education). The Chairman, in proposing the health of 'The Minister,' said that the present Government had done immense service to the cause of the friendly societies. (Cheers.) They now knew that the time when it was to have a friendly Government in office. Friendly societies of every sort were represented with the sole exception of the Masonic Order. Mr. Waddell said that the Government had had rather a temperate review of late. When the Government was formed it was greeted by the tempestuous waves of press criticism. It was said that the Government was a 'puppet Government,' and that it was a 'puppet Government' that was nearly three years ago, and the rougher the sea the stronger the boat and the better the navigation. (Cheers.) Judging appearances, the weather was a little better, and it would be some time before the leader of the Opposition would have to put out in his lifeboat to save himself. The Minister, who was glad to hear such warm approval expressed of the help given by the Government to the friendly societies, said that the Government was going to do its utmost to promote as far as could reasonably be done the welfare of societies which were doing such noble work in the world. (Cheers.) The Minister then announced that the Government was going to do its utmost to promote as far as could reasonably be done the welfare of societies which were doing such noble work in the world. (Cheers.)
